into the 1920s case that inspired Agatha Christie, Dorothy Sayers and Margery Allingham on a bleak Tuesday morning in February 1921, 48-year-old Katharine Armstrong died in her bedroom on the first floor of an imposing Edwardian villa overlooking the rolling hills of the isolated borderlands between Wales and England. Within fifteen months of such a sad domestic tragedy, her husband Herbert Rowse Armstrong would be arrested, tried and hanged for poisoning her with arsenic, the only solicitor ever to be executed in England. Armstrong's story was retold again and again, decade after decade, in a thousand newspaper articles across the world and may have also inspired the new breed of popular detective writers seeking to create a cunning criminal at the centre of their thrillers with all the ingredients of a classic murder mystery. The case is a near-perfect whodunnit, but who in fact did it was Armstrong, really a murderer one hundred years after the execution. Agatha Award shortlisted, Stephen Bates examines and retells the story of the case, evoking the period and atmosphere of the early 1920s and questioning the fatal judgement.

The Palgrave Handbook of Power, Gender and Psychology takes an intersectional feminist approach to the exploration of psychology and gender through a lens of power. The invisibility of power in psychological research and theorizing has been critiqued by scholars from many perspectives, both within and outside the discipline. This volume addresses that gap. The handbook centers power in the analysis of gender but does so specifically in relation to psychological theory, research and praxis, gathering the work of sixty authors from different geographies, career stages, psychological sub-disciplines, methodologies and experiences. The handbook showcases creativity in approach and diversity of perspective. The result is a work featuring a chorus of different voices, including diverse understandings of feminisms and power. Ultimately, the handbook presents a case for the importance of intersectionality and power for any feminist psychological endeavor.
