this book weaves a history of the indonesian press and of indonesia s post independence history through the life story of mochtar lubis one of indonesia s best known newspaper editors authors and cultural figures with a national regional and international prominence he retained from the early 1950s until his death in 2004

the political contention that considers forests to be mere economic assets to achieve state welfare has slowly changed into a more conservative view since the ninth world forestry congress in Mexico in 1985 rightly acknowledged that there has been severe tropical forest destruction and environmental deterioration around the globe

This is an intensive study of Indonesian politics from the attainment of full independence in December 1949 to the proclamation of martial law in March 1957 and President Soekarno's subsequent establishment of guided democracy. It is intended as a contribution to the ongoing discussion of democracy in the new states of Asia and Africa of the ways in which Western political institutions are transformed when employed in non-Western social settings and of the obstacles to be overcome if such institutions are to operate in consonance with the authority systems of new nations and with their solution of economic and administrative problems now brought back into print as a member of Equinox Publishing's Classic Indonesia series. The decline of constitutional democracy is considered to be the definitive study of Indonesia in the 1950s and will be of great interest to the growing number of social scientists concerned with the pre-industrial nations and in particular with their efforts to use and adapt Western political institutions. This is a solid and scholarly account but written on the basis of much personal observation. Dr. Feith manages to present his material in such a way that readers with no previous background in the subject will be able to follow the book almost as easily as will specialists.

Herbert Feith (1930-2001) became familiar with Indonesia during 1951-53 and 1954-56 when he was an English language assistant with the Ministry of Information of the Republic of Indonesia. A citizen of Australia, he received an MA degree from the University of Melbourne in 1955 and a PhD from Cornell University in 1961. He was a research fellow in the Department of Pacific History, Australian National University from 1960 to 1962 and was chair of politics at Monash University from 1968 until 1974.

This book examines through the case study of Indonesia over recent decades how the reporting of violence can drive the escalation of violence and how journalists can alter their reporting practices in order to have the opposite effect and promote peace. It discusses the nature of press freedom in Indonesia from 1966 onwards, considers the relationship between the press and politicians and explores journalistse tm working methods it goes on to outline in detail the communal wars in eastern indonesia in the period 1999 2000 arguing that communication as much as physical preparations for violence were key to bringing about the wars with journalistse tm rigid professional routines and newswriting conventions causing them to reproduce and enlarge the battle cries of those at war the book concludes by advocating a development communication approach to journalism in transitional settings in order to help journalists to counter the disintegrative tendencies of failing states and the communal strife that can result
